- Some important questions:

a) Sometimes, species 'نوع' comes as a predicate for genus "جنس", such as in:

"الحيوان انسان و فرس و ---" while it is neither essential "ذاتي" nor accidental "عرضي" for that, so, is there any mediator between these two?

Answer: The predicate that is meant in the five universals (الكليات الخمس) is only the predicate in 'الحمل الطبيعي'.

- There are three divisions of predication:

1. By nature, by designation (الطبيعي و الوضعي) – The predicate is always a real universal 'كلي' because a real particular 'جزئي' per se cannot be predicated to others.

By nature (الطبيعي): The predicate is always a 'كلي'. When the predicate is more universal than the subject, the predication is called "الحمل الطبيعي" for it suits the temper, such as "محمد انسان".

By designation (الوضعي): When the subject is more universal, the predication is called "الحمل الوضعي" because it needs designation, such as "الحيوان فرس و انسان".
